Your Complete Hanoi Guide

A thoughtful photo and film walk for solo travelers, couples, creators, and small groups who want Hanoi to feel personal.

You arrive beneath faded balconies as motorbikes thread through the Old Quarter. Nothing asks you to rush. A first walk, a camera at your side, and Hanoi begins to feel less like a map than a sequence of small invitations.

MEET YOUR HANOI FRIEND

A Walk Shaped Around You

TravelFrame pairs a relaxed local-host experience with natural photo and video support. Solo women are especially welcome, along with couples, creators, and small groups. You set the pace; we help make room for the details you care about.

You notice narrow pavements, open doorways, and motorbikes pausing between turns. Curiosity is enough to begin: share what catches your eye, then let a local friend shape a walk around the details you want to keep.

CHOOSE YOUR HANOI MOOD

Two Moods, One Route

Choose up to two moods and share your priorities. TravelFrame proposes a route around them, then you can swap one or two stops before confirmation. Routes respond to the street and the day, so we do not promise a particular vendor, street activity, Train Street access, or light.

Heritage Hanoi

Old balconies, layered streets, temple edges, and quiet architectural texture.

A basket of flowers leans against a bicycle while the street keeps moving. Your route can connect two moods, not one fixed version of Hanoi, so the places that catch your attention have room to belong together.

Everyday Hanoi

Local cafes, markets, everyday movement, and the small details between destinations.

Hanoi in Style

French Quarter lines, polished portraits, and architecture with a calmer frame.

Hanoi After Dark

Night streets, neon, evening energy, and space for a more cinematic Reel.

BEFORE YOUR TOUR

Bring What Helps You Feel Free

Keep preparation simple. Comfort and a little battery power go a long way when you are walking and noticing more.

- Wear an outfit that feels like you and works for the weather.
- Choose comfortable shoes for walking.
- Bring a small bag for essentials.
- Arrive with a charged phone and a power bank.
- Check the weather before you leave.
- Confirm the meeting point before the tour.

A cup of coffee waits beside a quiet chair, giving the day a softer rhythm. Before you head out, a few small preparations leave more space for looking around, noticing the street, and taking the day as it comes.

ON THE DAY

Easy Guidance, Real Breathing Room

You will meet your local friend, confirm the mood for the day, and ease into the route. Expect gentle posing guidance, a look at sample photos, and time to ask for a different angle or a slower pace.

01 Meet your local friend.

02 Confirm your chosen mood and priorities.

03 Receive gentle posing guidance.

04 Review sample photos together.

05 Take a food or coffee pause if you would like one.

A pause is optional. Food and coffee purchases are paid separately unless they are confirmed in your package itinerary.

A cafe table and folding chairs face the street; a small pause becomes part of the picture. With gentle direction and time to settle in, you can be present in Hanoi rather than only passing through it.

CALM PRACTICAL NOTES

Stay Safe & Know the Price

A few calm habits can make everyday transactions and moving around feel clearer.

Paying cash

Say the denomination, keep the note visible, and count your change.

Unsolicited shoe repair

If you did not ask for it, say “No, thank you” and keep moving.

Fruit or photo props

Agree the full price before accepting fruit or photo props.

Getting a ride

Book through Grab or via a verified Mai Linh channel such as the official app or 1055. Match the vehicle and driver before you get in.

Train Street

Follow barriers, posted restrictions, and railway or security instructions.

Changing money

Prepare small VND notes. At a reputable shop where you are already buying something, politely ask if they can break a 500,000 VND note; they may decline. Exchange foreign cash only at a licensed bank or an authorized exchange counter.

Fresh coconut

Ask the price before opening; accept only after you agree.

Neon gathers along a narrow alley after dark, and the last frames hold a different kind of quiet. Later, when the city is no longer outside your window, those colors can bring back the feeling of being there.
